CARMEL VALLEY Little League players quench their thirst in between games at Dampier Park in the valley.

Supes blast wrong group, staff to blame for mixup

By PAUL WOLF

MEMBERS OF the Highlands-Bixby Advisory Committee say county staff erred in a report to the Monterey County Board of Supervisors, and consequently the advisory committee came out looking bad.

Members are trying to set the record straight, and it seems they have been successful. Said 2nd District Supervisor Barbara Shipnuck in a phone interview May 23, "I think this is something that we can put behind us. I am pleased they are not angry."

The mixup occurred at a May 15 supervisors' meeting. Members of the advisory committee explain that someone from the county staff wrongfully attributed to the advisory committee a planning commission recommendation for approval of a new home on Boyd Way in the Carmel Highlands.

The supervisors, then, were under the impression the advisory committee favored the removal of five oak trees called for in plans.

At the meeting, supervisors railed against the advisory committee, blaming it for not recognizing county policies against the felling of oaks. The species of oaks in question are listed as endangered in the county, according to advisory committee chairwoman Elaine Gloodt.

"In the future," Shipnuck declared at the May 15 meeting, "I will take a jaundiced look at any recommendations made by this advisory committee."

In the phone interview after meeting, Shipnuck said her statements that day were simply

'I think this is something that we can put behind us. I am pleased they are not angry.'

— Barbara Shipnuck
— Supervisor

based on the information she received, which she had no reason to believe was incorrect.

Members of the advisory committee said they had twice rejected the project — never approving it — before the planning commission reviewed it and gave its approval last December — tree removals included.

"We denied the project," said advisory committee member Barbara Ranier, "because we agreed with the residents of the area who didn't like the project."

Valley's Little League season in full swing thanks to volunteers

By SUSAN BECK

LITTLE LEAGUE in Carmel Valley is in full swing thanks to a thriving concern motivated by the spirit of cooperation and volunteerism, says Dennis Boehlje.

Boehlje is the coach for the Carmel Valley Kiwanas Little League team, the Indians. Boehlje, also a real estate broker, investor, and league board member, says that the board members, coaches, and umpires are all volunteers who get involved in the league, whether they have children or not, because they care.

This kind of attitude teaches children a lot about community and sharing. "The kids learn to help each other, and, they learn a little about baseball, too," says Boehlje.

Little League teaches basic baseball, which ultimately prepares youths for high school and college teams, says Boehlje, who has been coaching for six years.

The games started in April and end July 4. More than 200 girls and boys play in the league. Each team has two or three coaches. There are eight minor and six major teams. Major team players are 9 to 12 years old. Those players not chosen for the major teams go to the minors, so "everyone gets to play," Boehlje says.

Baseball isn't the main thing. What Boehlje enjoys the most is getting to know the children and watch them grow up. "You know they remember you as the Little League coach."

The Carmel Valley Little League's budget is about $25,000 a year. Individual team sponsors provide $400 each for the budget, and the youths pay a $35 sign-up fee as well. The snack bar provides several thousand dollars, and once a year there is a Batathon where the kids sign up pledges for how far they will hit the ball. Last year it brought in $9,000. The Carmel Valley park district also contributes to the Little League's budget.

The league's two main expenses are the maintenance of the field and park and equipment, which includes bats, balls, helmets, catchers' gear and more. The rest goes towards uniforms for the majors and hats and shirts for the minors. Team members have to provide their own gloves.

The average attendance on Saturdays at Dampier Park in the valley is about 500 to 700 people with many people staying the entire day. Boehlje has a 9-year-old in the league and plans to be involved for at least three more years.

5 Boehlje says he will probably be here for years after that. Some board members have been involved with the league for 15 to 20 years. "Saturday is just the day to be at the Little League park."

City council, planning agendas are growing at an alarming rate

By NANCY HILLS

THE spring and summer are a time of growth, but this may be more than anyone expected.

Both the Carmel City Council and the Carmel Planning Commission agendas have grown right out of their time slots.

The city council will have to schedule two meetings the first week of June (on the 5th and 7th), due to the size of the agenda. The May 23 planning commission agenda was 200 pages long.

The Tuesday, June 5 council meeting has 10 public hearings, extraordinary business and ordinances. The Thursday, June 7 meeting will have orders of council — items such as the First Murphy, appointments to the planning commission and the preservation committee, the stance on Hatton Canyon — and a consent calendar.

"For Tuesday's meeting, public hearing, there are seven appeals, three ordinances and one resolution. The non-appeal items are basically implementing the city's efforts on residential design review studies," said City Administrator Doug Schmitz. "On Thursday's meeting there are several items that have previously been on the council and policy guidance given and now coming back to the council. For instance, the First Murphy house, the residential parking program on Torres Street and Eighth. We have the subpotable water grant program, and architectural preservation committee sunset clause."

This is unusual, however and he does not expect it to continue.

"I cannot judge the appeals, but on this agenda you have the culmination of many municipal projects and programs which are coming up at this time."

THE PLANNING commission and planning department are not so lucky to be able to say that it might be a one-time problem.

Carmel Planning Director Diane White, in her April report, states that at the planning department, there were "77 applications requiring public hearings pending" and that applications are up "70 percent from March and 123 percent from a year ago, April 1989."

The result is that applicants who file now will not have a hearing before the commission for about five or six months, the report states.

White explained that the planning commission is actually moving applications through during meetings faster than it did last year.

"This (time frame) is not a result of the commission not acting on things," she said.

The commission will either have to have longer meetings, which already regularly run from 3 to 7 p.m., or meet more often. The commission now occasionally meets twice a month on Wednesdays, but many times holds special meetings on alternate Wednesdays.

Design reviews, she said, takes up the most time. The planning department received 17 commercial design applications and five residential in April. Of the 17 commercial, nine were signs. The commission acted on 17 design review applications, 10 of which were signs.

Of the 12 residential design study applications received, six were for new two-story homes and six were for a two-story addition.

The planning department received 13 use permit applications in April and considered and acted on another four, filed in prior months, during its meetings. Of the 13 use permits, 10 were commercial, one a guest house, one for an accessory sink and one is

Old Carmel spirit

Dear Editor:

I would like to thank the Carmel City Council for saving the first Murphy and for naming the Lincoln and Sixth site as its future home.

I can envision it not only as a clubhouse with music, chess, backgammon and other games, but also as a meeting place for small groups, with a glass-enclosed area for Carmel history and memorabilia, a hanging space for changing exhibits, a reading room with an honor-system lending library (books, quality magazines and newspapers), a large bulletin board reminiscent of the Old Carmel Bulletin Board where notices of local music, arts, theater, travel and other special events can be posted (incorporating a residents/guest exchange and message area), a space where brochures and information from local groups could be centered, as well as an area for serving light snacks and coffees — and this is only the beginning!

Let's all get together and show that the old Carmel spirit is alive and well by supporting the first Murphy plan.

True values

Dear Editor:

The resignation of Ed Hicks and Fred Keeble from the Carmel Planning Commission over the issue of language that could be construed as racial slurs is an unfortunate incident in the history of Carmel. I believe that Ed Hicks simply made a mistake when he used the language that he did, referring to the term "nigger" as common architectural terminology. That was never true, not 40 years ago, not today. That language is offensive and unacceptable, particularly when it is used by a sitting planning commission member in public session representing the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Free Keeble is wrong when he refers to the actions of the city administration and the mayor as a disgrace. What was wrong was for Ed Hicks to fail to immediately apologize to this community for using inappropriate language that could be construed as racial slurs. To attempt to remain in a position of responsibility and power when you have embarrassed those of us who fail to understand the use of that language had the potential to create a public relations and morale disaster for our village.

Fred put his friendship for Ed first, and I can understand that. The mayor and the administration of Carmel put the principle of fairness and non-prejudice first, which is as it should be. We have six black employees working for the City of Carmel. Are we going to tell them that a few of our commissioners might use language with some racial overtones, but don't worry about it?

No.

That behavior was offensive and unacceptable and I am proud that Mayor Jean Grace and City Administrator Doug Schmitz sent a strong message to any appointed official serving on any board of commission. Our behavior in the public eye must be professional, proper, and respectful of everyone no matter what race, creed, color, sex, or age. There is no place for prejudice in Carmel.

I am proud that our city officials took the stand that they did. The values they represent by their actions, I believe, are the values of the citizens of Carmel.

Weeded out

Dear Editor:

The parks rangers spoke almost contemptuously of the cut-down small trees that lay in a high and wide heap alongside the parking lot at Carmel River State Beach.

"The acacia's a weed," he said. "Like the eucalyptus. Both come from Australia." Correct history, bad horticulture.

"Weed" is defined in the dictionary: "Any undesired, uncultivated plant, especially one growing...to crowd out a desired (species)." Obviously the acacias along the 150-foot embankment were not weeds, but a cultivated variety chosen by previous parks employees to serve a good purpose.

"The first acacias," the Sunset Western Garden Book states, "came into California gardens a few years after the discovery of gold...now serve, beautifully and functionally...in landscapes...decorate and protect...banks (as at the state beach)...serve well in beach plantings. Attractive to birds."

The 15-to-20-foot trees at the beach are described in the book as they were before May 3 when a prisoner work crew, under parks direction, cut them down: "Acacia longifolia, Sydney Golden Wattle...bright green leaves, golden yellow flowers...big rounded, billowy...good soil binder near beach."

The day after the trees were felled, a strong wind off the ocean blew the sand in great clouds off the bare embankment. The sand went into the lagoon, further reducing the water-holding capacity, already a concern.

And now what? A parks resource ecologist says that in the late fall, when rain is a "possibility," low, spreading plants, primrose, beach bur and sand verbena, "native to a site like that," could be planted. Primrose, says the dictionary, is "a flower of the genus Primula, especially any of the...plants of Asiatic or European origin." A native? If Asilomar beach is an example, the planting of fragile plants on the embankment will require fences, walkways and "keep off" signs.

One grove of trees remains at the beach. When the ocean winds blow, beach visitors gather, often in large parties, behind its high sheltering mound, enjoying the view of the lagoon. Residents who favor retaining these trees might want to let parks know, 649-2836.

'Carmelish' houses

Dear Editor:

I'm writing in response to the article on page 3 of the April 17 issue of the Carmel Pine Cone. The article was about the two houses awaiting approval by the planning commission, located on 11th Street overlooking Mission Trail Park.

All one has to do is look at the new house on OakKnoll or San Carlos north of the Hofsas House, to see the "very Carmelish" houses Al Saroyan designs. He is always very much aware of the surrounding appearance and is very "tree conscious." Especially at the OakKnoll house.

As a Carmel home owner and resident, I would be proud to own or live next to one of his houses. Especially when comparing his designs to some of the monstrosities that have been approved in previous years by the planning commissions.

Get perspective

Dear Editor:

This letter is in response to one published by Kenneth C. Derrick of Carmel Highlands. I am not sure why Mr. Derrick believes he should have the right to vote in a community where he does not live but beside that, it is his description of businesses in Carmel as "the goose that lays the golden egg" that bothers me.

As a regular visitor to Carmel, I do not go there for the shops in town or the goods they sell, and neither do any of our friends. Frankly, we can buy the same thing cheaper in any mall in California. My husband certainly doesn't go there to shop. He goes to play golf.

The reason we shop in Carmel is because the ambiance of the village is so special. It has remained small, there are no neon signs, the buildings are charming (although the new one next to the Hog's Breath leaves something to be desired), and the scenery is wonderful. I suspect this is due more to the residents and their local government than to the businesses. We've seen what the business owners did to La Jolla. It's terrible.

Perhaps Mr. Derrick ought to develop some perspective about how lucky he is to have a town like Carmel bringing people to shop in his store. Most people I know go to Carmel. The shops just happen to be there.

Similar experiences

Dear Editor:

We can certainly sympathize with the remarks of the owner of Visions Fine Art Gallery in your Business Beat section of May 10.

Mr. St. Denis' comments brought back memories of our experience with Ms. Diane White and the Carmel Planning Commission. We came away from that experience of "arrogance and abusive treatment by civil employees" convinced that any future conversations with Ms. White should be done with a tape recorder in hand. She has a talent for saying one thing in your presence and then later denying what she said. Of course, the other civil servants of Carmel always believe her.

Earlier this year, a neighbor's sign suddenly appeared on our building which was larger than the sign we were permitted to have. When we complained to the planning department, it took three separate letters to Ms. White before we got a response and that came only after we sent a copy of the file to Mayor Jean Grace.

When the planning commission's Mr. McLeod came out to investigate our complaint (which turned out to be legitimate), he found fault with the parking stall signs in our parking lot. The parking lot is not visible from the street and the parking stall signs have been there for 25 years!

Nuts and spice

Dear Editor:

Since the plural of mouse is mice and the plural of louse is lice, shouldn't the plural of spouse be spice, or should it, or would it, or could it?

Most, if not all, women will agree that one husband is more than sufficient. I have never heard of a culture or religion that permits a woman to have spice. If a woman does have spice, she is referred to by a derogatory name. Her spice, however, are referred to by the innocent-sounding names of customers, clients, or the more benevolent titles of patrons (like patrons of the arts?). Women of the World, arise! If not for equal rights, at least demand equal justice.

If a man has several spice and they all live in one house, should we say that they all live in a nut's house or in a nuts' house? If each spouse lives in a different house, couldn't we say that there is at least one nut (and somewhere a second) in each of the hice of the spice?

Applicants sought to fill water board position

By NANCY HILLS

THE MONTEREY Peninsula Water Management District board voted May 21 to appoint a new director to fill Bob Russell's seat.

Interested parties have until June 7 to apply for the seat.

Russell died of liver failure April 28, leaving 17 months on his term. He was elected to the board in November 1989. The term expires in November, 1991.

Russell advocated a water meter moratorium and reduction in the amount of water the peninsula population is allowed to consume until a water project is complete. He was considered a pro-environmentalist candidate and director.

The Residents Water Committee, which circulated the water meter restriction petition prior to the election and supported Russell, has given its endorsement for the post to its chairperson and former water board director Pat Bernardi.

The water district will accept applications for the vacant board seat at its offices at the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District office, 187 Eldorado St., Suite E, Monterey, 93940 or mailed to P.O. Box 85, Monterey, 93942-0085 no later than 5 p.m. June 7, 1990. The board will select the new candidate June 15.

The board also approved the second reading of an ordinance that sets a maximum amount of water use for residents and changes the policy of variances for businesses.

Before the change, residents needed only to reduce their water consumption by 20 percent to meet the rationing restrictions. Some large water users would reduce by 20 percent but still use more water than the board felt was fair or necessary. The new law allows a resident to use no more than approximately 800 gallons a day.

This maximum will only be used if the residence has reduced water consumption by 20 percent. If the residence does not reduce consumption by 20 percent, then the ration is set at 82 gallons a day per person in a single-family residence. It is more for one person in a home and less for apartment and condomium occupants.

Businesses will no longer be able to automatically receive a variance that allows them to use an average of the water use of their type of business rather than individually drop water consumption by 20 percent.

About one-half of peninsula businesses on the peninsula had applied for and automatically received the averaged water use variance that permited some to use the same amount of water they had been using prior to the drought.

A business must prove it has taken every reasonable step to reduce water consumption now to get the variance. Businesses that currently have the variance will be notified by letter if they need to reapply.

The changes were made on the recommendation of the committee formed to review the rationing program.

JAMES COFER (right), the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District's new general manager, chats with water board chairman Dick Heuer (center), and Hitoshi Kono (left), of Daniels & House Construction Co. at a special board meeting May 14, when the board officially hired him. Cofer, an engineer, came to the peninsula from the Tahoe area. He had been general manger of the South Tahoe Utility District for 14 years. He was selected from a field of 120 applicants, screened by the board and Norman Roberts & Associates, a "headhunting" firm. He and his wife, Dolores, will live in Pacific Grove. She draws students from near and far to her classes

By SUSAN BECK

NINE-YEAR-OLD Jim Neubert and his mother make a 120-mile roundtrip once a week from their home in Tres Pinos to meet with Carmel Valley's Mary Lou Berta.

'I felt called to it. It rescues human beings, and teaches them that their reading problems are not their fault.'
— Mary Lou Berta

Berta tutors children with dyslexia to read for life at the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center, and it isn't unusual for children like Neubert to have their mothers bring them to her classes from places as far away as Tres Pinos in order to overcome their reading problems.

Berta has taught dyslexics in this area for the past 22 years. She became interested in teaching through a friend, Mary Hall, who was using a multi-sensory method (visual, vocal, listening), to assist people with their reading skills.

"I felt called to it. It rescues human beings, and teaches them that their reading problems are not their fault," says Berta.

After teaching at two private schools, Berta decided to get her teaching credentials. She earned a master's degree in education, a bilingual specialist credential, and a state certificate of competency in Spanish. When she retired from teaching in the public school system she began her own dyslexia tutoring service called "Reading for Life."

Technically, dyslexics have a symmetrical brain with both the left and right sides being equal as opposed to a "normal" brain where the left side is always slightly larger. The lobes or centers in the left side of the brain control different functions of language, such as reading and memory skills, says Chris Harris, executive director of the Chartwell School for dyslexics in Seaside.

According to preliminary brain research being done at the Beth Israel Hospital in Boston, it seems that neurons (nerve cells and its appendages), migrating to the language lobes of a dyslexic brain do not distribute evenly. The neurons pack into one area and are absent in another, creating gaps. In a non-dyslexic brain the neurons are distributed in an even pattern throughout the language lobes, says Harris.

The uneven distribution of neurons in the language lobes of a dyslexic brain, however, does not necessarily constitute an abnormality; dyslexics are often especially gifted in other areas. Albert Einstein and Winston Churchill both had dyslexia.

Berta is adamant about the need for the public, especially educators, to understand dyslexia. One in 15 people have some degree of dyslexia, and it is more prevalent in males by at least four to one. Unfortunately, says Berta, dyslexic children are often thought of as lazy, careless, or uncaring, and they begin to show anger and frustration, or withdraw at any early age.

"It is important to be aware that dyslexics are not unintelligent. They are usually extremely bright, creative, and imaginative people," she says.

Some specific dyslexic traits include difficulty in learning and remembering printed words, repeated spelling errors, lessened reading and writing comprehension in language, and an uncertainty about right or left-handedness, and confusion about directions in space and time.

Not enough people are able to recognize the traits of dyslexia and, subsequently, the children move through the school system while falling further and further behind. Their frustration creates a lack of confidence and self-esteem, says Berta.

A Johns Hopkins School of Medicine study reported that 58 percent of dyslexics who received compensatory instruction earned bachelor's degrees, and 10 percent of these completed graduate programs. Berta, in addition to her tutoring, teaches educators on the Monterey Peninsula and surrounding areas on how to detect dyslexia and use special teaching techniques to assist their students with specific language difficulties.

In recognition for her work Berta was recently selected by the Monterey County Commission on the Status of Women to receive the "Trail Blazer" award for initiating her dyslexic tutoring service in Carmel Valley. And while she enjoys the attention, she doesn't want to be put on a pedestal.

"My work gives me so much pleasure because I like to see children become happy. I think I'm selfish," she says.

Fire department's response rate will improve with new program

By NANCY HILLS

THE CARMEL Fire Department underwent a quiet but important change May 16.

That was the official date the Carmel Fire Department's "first responder" program went into effect.

The first responder program enables the predominantly volunteer fire department to get at least one fire engine out the door in under a minute, explained Fire Chief Bill Hill, because there will now be a minimum of two paid employees at the station 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

The first response vehicle will not wait until the volunteers arrive at the fire station on Sixth Avenue between San Carlos and Mission streets. The time it takes volunteers to get to the station varies according to traffic conditions and the distance they have to travel.

"In the budget for 1989-1990, the Carmel City Council authorized additional positions to facilitate a reorganization of the fire department by creating two new positions and hiring two people — one shift commander and one engineer," Hill said.

The council authorized an annual $114,000 budget for the new positions, according to city hall.

Two of the four existing engineer positions were changed to shift commander, giving the fire department three shift commanders and three engineers rather than four engineer positions as there had been in years past. Prior to the reorganization, the fire department had no shift commander positions.

"The direct result is that we will have two fully paid people and a volunteer on duty at all times," Hill said.

The volunteer will receive a small stipend for staying the night, he added.

Hired to fill the new positions were Bruce Meyer, Carmel native and volunteer captain since 1972, as shift commander and Ian Watts, a volunteer and a full-time firefighter for the airport district, as engineer.

In addition to the new positions, the department is working on a backup 911 dispatch answer system with the police department. Hill said that the fire department had always answered its own dispatch calls, which meant someone had to be left at the station when the crews went out on a call. With backup from the police, that will not be a concern.

The first responder program, Hill added, will be "ideal" for the proposed paramedic program that may begin in September.

Fire season is now open

FIRE SEASON has been open since May 1 in the San Benito-Monterey Ranger Unit according to Robert E. Taylor, Ranger Unit chief.

Taylor said the California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection, CDF, is expecting a potentially very hazardous fire season of long duration this year because of the continuing drought now in its fourth year.

CDF will be placing Gabilan Conservation Camp Crews, Bitterwater Helitack and all three ranger unit bulldozers on fire response status. In addition, Carmel, King City, Hollister, Bear Valley, Bradley, Lockwood and Parkfield Forest Fire Station personnel will be staffing one engine and be available for wildland fire response.

Garden Club event a big success

By SHARON LAWRENCE

MORE THAN 1,000 people crowded the barns and grounds of Mission Ranch this past Saturday to enjoy "Country Airs," a stunning flower fair presented by the Carmel-by-the-Sea Garden Club.

As far as flower lovers were concerned, this presentation, two years in the making, was worth the drive from cities as far away as Pasadena and distant boundaries of Northern California and the interior valleys. They sniffed at the magnificent rose blooms, marveled at irises with names like "Dancing Beauty" and took notes on the raising of perfect succulents.

"We are ecstatic at the reaction to the Flower Fair," sums up Garden Club member Hallie Mitchell Dow. "Some of the visitors have attended hundreds of garden shows, and their praise had our ears ringing. There are 56 of us in the club, and we were given tremendous help by the Carmel Valley Begonia Gardens, Spencers Whimsical Garden, Tancredi & Morgen, Flowers Ltd. Whittakers and so many more."

The event, which was free to the public, was coordinated for the Garden Club by Mrs. Davis Factor, Jr. and Mrs. Thomas Stratton. Members of the Carmel group were judged by a panel of experts in 11 categories of flower arranging and horticultural exhibits. Blue ribbon winners included Laurie Hall, Susan Chatham, Pamela Smith, Jean Mitchell, Shirley Meneice, Rosemary Blackstone, Margaret Graham, Dorothy Singleton, Jinny Atkinson, Hallie Dow, Joy Blackhall, Helen B. Montgomery, Ann Walbert and Mrs. Douglas Despard, Jr.

More than 250 fancy box lunches were sold, and a selection of garden-related merchandise was available from quality vendors. Free "handouts" on garden books and growing tips were popular with the throngs, who also were impressed by several ecological and environmental displays.

Conservation is a major concern of the Garden Club's educational and promotional programs. The "Menzies Wallflower," which is an endangered species in our area, has been adopted by the club for its protection.

Club members work throughout the year on many projects of benefit to Carmel-by-the-Sea and the peninsula. They provide support for the Lester Rowntree Memorial Arboretum, the Norton Senior Citizen Housing garden, the La Mirada Adobe and the Cooper-Molera historic garden restoration. The club was instrumental in establishing the garden oasis of Piccadilly Park on busy Dolores Street. Their festive holiday arrangements are well known by patrons of Harrison Memorial Library, the Carmel Foundation and the Hospice.

Yet she doesn't do them for nothing.

So far, Kate and hundreds of activists like her have been able to stop the slaughter of seals in Canada. Spare the whales from extinction. And obtain criminal indictments against some of the world's worst polluters.

And those are just a few of the job's benefits.

For fifteen years, Greenpeace activists have put their life and health on the line. For the life and health of our planet.

And even though we don't do this for money, it would be extremely hard for us to accomplish anything without it.

MEMBERS OF the Carmel Residents Association enjoyed an afternoon recently at Elkhorn Slough Sanctuary. On the two-mile walk through the sanctuary, guided by volunteer docents, the group saw Great Blue Heron and egrets nesting high in the tops of Monterey pines and a landscape abundant with colorful poppies, wild radish and periwinkle along with masses of poisonous hemlock and sweet-smelling fennel. Here sanctuary guide Deidre Baxter explained the hazards of hemlock to CRA member Mary Stewart Hoopes.

They were introduced by broadcaster Steve "Citizen" Kane (center), of radio station KAZU, who also conducted interviews for his telecast. Detro is a regular contributor to Jazz Times and writes the Jazz Tides column for this newspaper. He can be heard weekdays on radio station KRML. Forest support group formed

AN INITIAL meeting was held May 18 to begin the formation of Friends of Carmel Forest, a group whose objective is to encourage citizen participation in the preservation and enhancement of the trees and native vegetation in Carmel and its sphere of influence.

After a membership drive, the organization will develop a comprehensive brochure explaining the benefits of trees, their care and maintenance and the characteristics of native trees. Several projects are envisioned which would involve individual members and other local organizations. The Carmel-by-the-Sea City Council has designated this new group an offical support group of the city.

Temporary officers were chosen to get the organization started: Barbara Livingston, president; Karen Ferlito, vice president; Steve Brooks, secretary; and Bob Kohn, treasurer and board members Clayton Anderson and Howard Skidmore. Other board members will be appointed.

Further information on the organization can be obtained by calling Livingston at 626-1610 or Ferlito at 626-8249.

JUST SAY 'NO' TO BUD COOK

DEPUTY SHERIFF'S ASSOCIATION OF MONTEREY COUNTY

P.O. BOX 345
SALINAS, CALIFORNIA 93902

TO THE VOTERS OF MONTEREY COUNTY

The Deputy Sheriff's Association of Monterey County wants you to know that WE DO NOT SUPPORT BUD COOK in his attempt to get re-elected. Never before in the history of our county has a Sheriff failed to win the support of his deputies.

WHY?

Sheriff Cook is more concerned with his image than with doing a good job.
Sheriff Cook has surrounded himself with a personal staff, isolating him from the real world and his own deputies

Sheriff Cook has made promises for a better department each election year only to fail to follow through or to just let them fade away.

He started the School Resource Officer Program.
It no longer exists.

He started the Planning & Research Unit.
It no longer exists.

He said that he would work to get us a 4-10 Plan.
Now he claims it is impossible.

He started a Reserve Deputy Sheriff Program with 18 people.
Now there are only 4.

Sheriff Cook explains our lack of support as being a case of a few deputies who do not like some of the decisions he has made as Sheriff.

78% of the deputies voted not to support him!

We want a leader who will give us more than lip service once every four years. We have worked hard to make Monterey County a better place. Now we want a better department.

Ask Sheriff Cook why his own deputies will not support him.

IT'S TIME FOR A CHANGE.

Paid for by the Deputy Sheriff's Association of Monterey County/Political Action Committee. Ed Payne, Treasurer • P.O. Box 345, Salinas, CA 93902

Wild land fires confirms fears of fire officials

WILDLAND FIRES the first week of May confirm firefighter's worst fears. The grass and brush covering our local hills are burning with autumn explosiveness.

Robert E. Taylor, Ranger Unit chief of the California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection's San Benito-Monterey Ranger Unit, said firefighters will be in for a long hard fire season. "The potential for a conflagration is so great it will be a miracle if we come through the season without any devastating fires," he said.

The need to protect rural homes with the basic 30-foot clearance has never been more paramount, Taylor added. "The fires firefighters face this summer will be fast moving and very hot. Without the defensible space, 30-foot clearance, it will be nearly impossible to protect homes being over run by fire," he said.

"Protect your valuables, clear flammable vegetation for 30 feet from the house. Clear more if you are able, every extra foot beyond 30 is good insurance. Limb trees within the cleared space to 10 feet off the ground. Keep roofs clear of pine needles and dead leaves. Chimneys must have a one-half-inch mesh screen on top and no tree limbs within 10 feet of the opening. Wood shake shingles should be treated with a fire proofing compound. A relative small investment when compared to the value of a home."

The 30-foot cleared area does not need to be bare ground, Taylor said. It can be landscaped with fire resistive ground covers. Lawns, ice plant, ivy, African Daisy, honey suckle and periwinkle are examples. Toyon, Star Jasmine, Oleander and Carmel Creeper are some fire-resistive shrubs. There are also fire-resistive trees, such as Carob, California Pepper and African Suman. For the complete list consult your local nurseryman. With a little planning a fire resistive landscape can be very attractive while providing that critical defensible space.

The Right Stuff

BRONCO: IT was a week of surprising upsets as two top-ranked teams suffered defeats.

On May 16, Derek Rayne mounted a smashing offense to best the Express 13-9. E's Matt Allen was tough on the mound, striking out 8 batters in the final innings, but the damage had already been done. Top hitters: DR's Ben Cook (3-for-4, double), and Bret Hogan; E's Amir Masliyah (2-for-3), and Michael Gulla (double). Cook snagged a fly ball amidst an umpire-fielders scramble for a key putout.

Vessey's Drugs played hot offense and defense to top Pine Inn 5-4 on May 17. The game began with a pitchers' duel between Atshuhito Ito (V) and Laith Agha (PI), both of whom pitched three shutout innings. Highlights: Jon Smith smacked a stand-up double; Ben Armbrust singled in the 6th, and scored with Marc Jolley (who made a gutsy slide into home), on a deep single by Ito; Michael Yee drove in another run with a sharp hit. Dominic Boitano hit well and scored twice. For PI, David Spilfogel and Agha doubled; Joseph Silverie was sharp at second; Daniel Palshaw earned an RBI with a good hit in the final inning.

On May 19, Derek Rayne defeated La Playa 12-9. DR's Ryan Bailey pitched 3 hot innings and hit a ground rule double; Ben Cook doubled and went 3-for-4 with 2 RBI; Chris Langslet had two hits and Sebastian Becker and Noel Walling each singled for the winners. LP's top hitters: John Davi, Gary Briant, Russell Chaplan and David Keeble.

Vessey's Drugs had the right prescription with which to dose the Express May 19, throwing a 1-hitter against the first-place team. Outstanding pitching by Jon Smith, Atsuhito Ito and Michael Yee, together with excellent defense, won the game 7-1. Smith and Thomas Nichols doubled.

Bronco standings: Express, 8-3-1; Derek Rayne, 6-3-1; Pine Inn, 6-4; CVD, 6-4; La Playa, 2-8; Vessey's, 2-8.

MUSTANG: County Mounties defeated Brown-Spaulding 12-10 on May 15. Ryan Lehr (BS) tripled and was 3-for-3; going 2-for-3 were CM's Trent Nishiguchi (2 doubles, 3 RBI), Mike Cohen (2 doubles), Keath Moon and Jake Patalsky. CM's Tevye Morganrath (2-for-2), BS' Russel Wolter (3 RBI), and Adam Newhouse doubled. CM's Pat Otellini and Noah Cowen (RBI) and Guy Hawes (BS) had solid hits. Zach Downing (CM) made a great play at second.

On the Beach beat Carmel Dental 13-3 on May 19. Sandy Greenfield (OTN) hit 3-for-4 and doubled; Billy Clapsaddle (CD) doubled. CD's Kris Kunz and Brian Boitano both looked great in their pitching debuts.

County Mounties took an early lead and finished 9-7 over Copies by the Sea on May 19. Trent Nishiguchi struck out 9 of 14 batters in 3 innings for the winners; Noah Cowen made an excellent play at the plate. Top batters: CM's Nishiguchi and Michael Cohen; CS' Rushad Eggleston, Tony Klevan, Chris Peart (double).

PINTO: Brown-Spaulding played Gepetto's May 15; getting 3 hits each were G's Whitney Emerson, Justin Brennen, Cathy Keeble, Evan Parker and Neil Brimshaw, and BS' Robby Wellington and George Fontes. Fontes, Wellington and Aaron Campbell (BS) caught fly balls; G's Justin Travaille and Evan Parker made great stops and throws to first, while Daniel Myers played tough defense overall.

Repaving work continues on San Carlos Street

THE CARMEL Public Works Department will continue repaving work on San Carlos Street from Eighth Avenue to 12th Avenue through June 30.

During much of the work, the street will be closed to through traffic, so vehicles no higher than 12 feet 6 inches will be detoured onto Junipero Avenue between Eighth Avenue and Rio Road. Vehicles over 12 feet 6 inches in height will be detoured from Eighth Avenue to San Antonio to Santa Lucia to Rio Road.

Residents living in the construction area will have access to their homes and will receive individual notification of local traffic restrictions as the work progresses.

Public Works Director James Cullem said drivers are advised to remain alert to detour changes and the movement of heavy trucks during the construction period. Special caution must be exercised by vehicles detouring onto Junipero where trees close to the pavement edge and overhanging limbs restrict the movement of buses, campers and high vehicles, he said.

All problems or questions should be directed to the Carmel Public Works Department at 624-3543.

REC LEAGUE SOCKO

By Pat Lenz

Open season

OVER THE course of every Socko League season, injuries, unexpected emergencies, and lack of interest in the game, makes it hard for teams to field a full team every week. So to alleviate this problem we propose to make the league open to professional athletes who are not playing at the moment.

The Lakers' Magic Johnson hasn't been out of work this early before, so he could easily drive up the coast on the weekends and join the league. The same goes for Larry Bird, Wayne Gretzky, Joe Montana and the San Francisco Giants. This all depends if these athletes are good enough to play in the league. The players that are good enough played some pretty good ball this weekend.

BELLS GETS DE-ENERGIZED

Energizers vs. Bells Bombers 10-5: In a game between two of the better teams in the league the unbeaten Energizers broke open a tie game with a big seventh inning. They collected six straight hits after two were out in the inning. That gave them a big enough cushion over Bells to hold on for the win.

D.C.D. TAMES SHARKS

D.C. Defenders vs. Carmel Youth Center Sharks 22-8: In a game that was much closer than the final score showed, the Defenders put together a big last inning to hold off the young CYC team. After falling behind by six runs in the first inning the Defenders rallied and put the Sharks away with 11 runs in the final two innings.

JACKPOT FOR G.R.A.C. POTS

G.R.A.C. Pots vs. Jack London's 13-12: A great comeback highlighted the best game of the day, where the Garden Racquetball team scored six runs in the last at bat to edge Jack London's. Ten runs in the last two innings gave the G.R.A.C. Pots their best win of the season. Amazingly they came back after hitting into, what is believed to be, the first triple play in Socko League play.

SADE'S SLAMS MYERS

Sade's Slammers vs. Myers Painting 18-4: The new and improved Sade's team showed consistent power throughout the game for an impressive win over Myers. A five-run first inning was more than enough for the win.

BULLY SHOOTS C.R.A.P.S.

Bully III vs. C.R.A.P.S. 21-2: Bully III was relentless in an impressive win over the overmatched C.R.A.P.S. team. Eight consecutive hits in the third inning started Bully III on its way to the easy victory.

Auction action

IT WAS perhaps appropriate that the Hatton Canyon Photo Contest and Exhibit was held at the site of the former Wildlife Gallery in Carmel since the theme of the photos depicted the natural beauty and wildlife found in the canyon. The event was hosted by Ted Leidig and was attended by more than 200 art enthusiasts in a benefit for the Sierra Club Ventana Chapter's Transportation Committee for its work on local transportation issues such as the Highway 1 project. During the event a short 1968 film by Robert Blaisdell Pavement was shown on one screen while a huge screen ran a continuous loop of a canyon waterfall and on another, members of Carmel High School student organization SMART (Students Making A Right Tomorrow), cleaning junk out of the canyon. Auctioneers Cole Weston (right), and Hans Lehmann, with activist Noel Mapstead (left), auctioned off unusual artifacts found in the canyon, including a bathtub, antique loveseat and remnants of three automobiles. Photo contest judges included Edna Bullock, Roger Fremier, Cole Weston and Baron Wolman. Winners in the Black and White category included Alan McEwen, first; and Marianne Mangold, second and third; Color: Diana Mara Henry, first; Linda McHarry, second; Carolyn Snorf Neibel, third; Honorable Mention: Mary Fitzgerald Beach, Susan Hanrihan, Frances Scalisi; Participant Awards: Edie Ellis, Terry Thomas and James B. Toy. Photos and educational displays will remain on view through the end of May at the site, located near the northeast corner of Sixth and Dolores. Supes criticize wrong group

It came before the supervisors after resident William Madden appealed the planning commission's decision to approve the project. Four others besides Madden spoke in favor of the appeal and against the project. (Property owners are listed by the county as "Mr. and Mrs. Langtry.")

In a one-page letter to supervisors dated May 21, the advisory committee wrote: "In view of the true facts of this matter, we trust the board of supervisors will retract their allegations of misconduct which actually resulted from confusion within the county planning department itself."

Shipnuck said in the phone interview she was "pleased to hear" the committee never approved of the tree removals, saying to her mind the air has been cleared.

But the outcome of the May 15 meeting makes matters more confusing and throws a bit of irony into events.

The board, despite its censure of the advisory committee concerning the oak trees, overturned the appeal and upheld the planning commission's decision.

The trees, then, are slated to go. New oaks will have to be planted elsewhere on the lot as a condition of the project approval.

Shipnuck explained that there were other considerations besides the trees, such as the design features and the hardships of time and expense the process has put on the property owners.

She said his plans for the new home were legal regarding zoning regulations, and had received safety checks. Also, she said the owners had already undergone considerable design revisions. It was time to move forward, she explained.

Meanwhile, Gloodt said she has "deep regret" about the trees. "The real loser through all of this is the environment," she said.

Among other complaints, she said "the style of the home is not in keeping with the rural character" of the area.

Gloodt said, in addition, there would have been a simple way to save the oaks, by moving the proposed garage over to one side some 15 feet.

Agendas growing at alarming rate

listed as "other."

"Many of these applications require more than one action," White said.

An application may have a design reveiw and a use permit and/or the commission may ask for a resubmittal of plans, she said. Resubmittals will not go to the back of the line, she added, but the only fair way to handle the others is in the order they come in.

The planning department received 14 requests for building permits, issued another 23 and finalized 24. The building department conducted 173 inspections, including plumbing and electrical.

The drought and fear of a more extensive water meter moratorium may have had some effect on the number of applications coming in, but the spring and summer has traditionally been a time when more design review/study applications ar submitted.

An additional result, she said, is that the staff will not be able to take the time it has in the past on each application.

"We won't be able to take the time, work things out with people as much as we used to," White said.

The planning department also recently lost one planner when Eric Porter left to take a job in the private sector. White said she was not sure if he would be replaced.

"It depends on the budget," she said.

Visit from Sweden

ROALD AND Karin Wiss, Hallsberg, Sweden, Gerhard and Anna Marie Wohl, Orebro, Sweden, made a recent visit to Carmel. Wiss, a historian, genealogist and lecturer, spoke to a Swedish class on "Documenting of Torps" (cottages), in Sweden. Anna Marie Wohl is a barn morska, midwife, having had some 4,000 infants in her care. Gerhard Wohl is associated with Lippke Sweden Aktieboleg, a manufacturing company. The couples had been guests of Dr. and Mrs. Reuben Johnson and Mrs. June Turner (second from right), of Carmel. Their forebears go back to great-grandparents in Sweden. The Swedish class has been meeting 12 years with teacher Gunilla Tjernland Marks at Carmel High School.

Flasher II

ALTHOUGH PEOPLE are dead serious about fine music, there is no reason to be dead serious about everything else. Such a group gathered for a gourmet dinner and more than a few chuckles on Saturday evening.

Members of the Monterey Bay Symphony Association, supporters and guests of the Monterey Bay Chamber Orchestra returned to the scene of the "First Flasher Mystery Episode" one year ago. They came back to find out what happens when "The Flasher Returns."

Would the Flasher still be flashing? Or, was his open-and-shut case completely closed? Would he be returned to his old job as conductor of the Orient Express train? Thus, the "Saga of the Symphony Flasher" continued. Narrator True Boardman began the tale of "The Flasher Returns" offstage — way offstage because he couldn't attend — by taping his portion of the drama. Actress Peggy Compton sat quietly aboard the Orient Express Train (and, by-the-by, she has traveled on the real Express), reading a newspaper report of the Flasher when Lo! and Behold! a man sat down by her and started a conversation. He was dressed in a raincoat and acting strangely, so, we all knew right away it was the infamous Flasher (portrayed by stage star Sam Karas).

The Flasher spoke sadly of his disillusionment at failure to fulfill his dream of becoming a symphony conductor. The distraught would-be conductor confessed he had been discharged as conductor of the train and spoke of his desire to be reinstated to his position on The Orient Express.

He quietly asked a question (so quietly the audience couldn't hear), and the passenger replied, "Oh, the loo. It's right behind you." And the conductor "skipped to the loo" to "do away with himself."

The sound effects were unmistakable as he removed a bulb, placed one finger in the socket and put the other hand in a basin in water. Fortunately for him, several men appeared and demanded he open the door to the loo. When the door wasn't opened, they forced it and brought the conductor out to safety. When he regained consciousness, The Flasher accepted the fact that he "was a bad conductor." (Get it?)

Although he could not attain his life's dream of being a musical conductor, actors Frank Elton, Jim Barnes and Al Rilling did save his life. Also in the skit were Vonne Rilling and Pat Miniaci. (Will there be a "Flasher III" next year?)

Benjamin Fallana provided cocktail music. Preceeding the saga? drama? mystery? guests dined with relish on a seven-course "Old World Dinner" donated by Ariel Vineyards and Smith & Hook and the William Kenville Trio filled the air with dinner music.

Dr. Ron Weitzman, association president, had good news for music lovers. He announced the free Pops Concert the next afternoon at the Naval Postgraduate School and the 1990-91 season which offers four concerts instead of three. Maestro Michael Nowak has been selected as conductor. The final program will consist of several ensembles — one each with brass, string and piano. They are growing and have been debt free since the first year. We are indeed lucky to have so much fine music available.

OTHER EVENTS Around: May is the month to honor high school students.

A group of 14 outstanding high school scholars were recipients of awards totaling $15,500 from the Church of the Wayfarer Scholarship Fund. The median grade point average of this group was 3.93 — extremely high as most of them completed advanced college prep classes. These students were honored with a breakfast at the church on Sunday morning. Carmel High was represented by six students, Stevenson by four, two from Seaside High and one each from Monterey High and Santa Catalina.

More than $135,000 has been awarded to high school seniors during the 12-year program. Currently, it is the largest local scholarship program on the Monterey Peninsula.

The first scholarship in 1978 was awarded to Andrew Oven. His sister, Veronika, received one in 1988 and this year a member of the same family, Kristina Oven (Santa Catalina), received the UMW Scholarship.

This year the two $1,500 Paul R. Woudenberg Awards went to members of the Church of The Wayfarer, Lars Lindgren (Carmel High) and Jenny Alexander (RLS).

Other awardees were Miguelin Dominguez, Thomas Hawkins, Brian Mahoney, Dana Onstad, Mimie Pak, Brock Shafer, Margaret Snow, Adam Stiles, Annabelle Webb, Betsy Woudenberg and Allison Yant.

College studies planned by the students include pre-med, music, French, engineering, biology, anthropology, English, political science, psychology, and math. College destinations cover the country from coast to coast. This program is a fine way to support our outstanding young citizens.

Brenda Guy served as chairperson of the scholarship committee and serving with her were Marian Clemens, Kathy Olkoski, Joyce Lindgren, Arlen Lackey, Ned Protho, Lavern Ostermeyer and Fred Ellerbe.

The county's most artistically talented high school students were recognized by the Monterey County Cultural Council.

ACTRESS PEGGY Compton sits alone on the Orient Express train...but she is soon joined by a stranger, who turns out to be Sam Karas portraying "The Flasher on the Orient Express." (Christopher Hulse photos.)

RON WEITZMAN, president of the Monterey Bay Symphony Association, with Morley Brown, co-chairwoman of the Old World dinner, and Sam Karas, lead actor in the drama for the dinner at Express d'Orient Restaurant.

FRANK ELTON and Al Rilling are relieved when Sam Karas comes back to life during "The Flasher Returns" episode for the Monterey Bay Chamber Orchestra fund-raiser. Jim Barnes (partially hidden), was also part of the scene.

DONALD CRAGHEAD, Allen Funch, Jackie Craghead, and Frank Crispo all came out to support the Monterey Bay Chamber Orchestra.

GEORGE KLOCZL and Kathleen Fitzgerald, proprietors of Express d'Orient Restaurant in The Crossroads, generously contributed to the symphony fund-raiser.

MARTHA AND John Myszak and Sondra Reese had a great time at Monterey Bay Chamber Orchestra fund-raiser.

"California Arts Scholars" received commemorative medallions at a luncheon ceremony held at the Windfall Restaurant, Salinas.

Special honors were given to: Thais Esteban (creative writing), Salwa Raphael (dance), Brian Cope and Deanna Costa (photography), and in the visual arts Paige Bradley, Amanda Williams, Karima El'Hakkaoui, Cuong Huynh and Raymundo Morales. They will join others from all over the state when they attend the 1990 California State Summer School For the Arts at Mills College in Oakland.

"This is the opportunity of a lifetime," said John Totten,

MCCC president. "These students show exceptional talents. The summer school gives them the chance to work with nationally recognized artists and the encouragement they need to pursue further education and careers in the arts."

The California Arts Council (in partnership with El Paso Natural Gas Company), provides a vital function in maintaining, enriching and perpetuating our cultural life.

Roses, champagne and breathtaking views of the Monterey Bay from the seventh floor of the Park Lane Classic Residence by Hyatt served as the setting for "Older Americans Month Awards Reception."

Three distinguished members were honored. Barbara Jorss, for her professional achievements (she established law schools in San Jose and Sacramento for international students), Katherine Olson for her humanitarian endeavors (she taught English at American College, Cairo, Egypt and devoted her life to teaching English, speech and music to international students).

Elizabeth Morgan, former officer of Eastern Star Order, was posthumously awarded the Community Service Award.

Bruce Mondschain, VP of Classic Residence by Hyatt, and Sam Karas stressed the importance of roles played by the seniors in our communities. Monterey Mayor Daniel Albert issued a proclamation that declared the month of May "Older American Month" in the city of Monterey.

Santa Catalina School dedicated the Bedford Family Gymnasium first with a ceremony on Friday (with everyone in rubber-soled shoes), then, again with "Super Sock Hop" (with everyone wearing circle skirts, letter sweaters and tennies).

The Visiting Nurse Association honored past leaders at a reception at Monterey Peninsula Country Club on Friday. Robert C. Taylor, Jr. began the program at 5:30, which included anecdotes from VNA's historical records. These memories were shared by Regina Picetti of Hollister and Kathryn O'Neil of Salinas.

VNA volunteer and professional singer, Marnie Shooter, opened with Everything's Coming Up Roses and closed with People. Both apropos for the VNA people who have been helping others for many years. Ms. Shooter's accompaniest was Bardell Watson, whose late husband was VNA's board chairman.

Judith Hermann, president of the Central Coast VNA, spoke about the growth of the 40-year-old organization and its future. At the present time approximately 4,500 homecare visits are made each month through the offices in Monterey, Salinas and Hollister. Pediatric nursing care has been added recently.

"Country Airs", a gift of a free flower fair to the community, was given by the Carmel-by-the-Sea Garden Club on Saturday. It certainly brought a cheerful atmosphere into the Barns at the Carmel Mission Ranch. Look for the article by Sharon Lawrence in today's edition of the Carmel Pine Cone.

IN YOUR social future....Looks like the first weekend in June will be a busy social scene, so, get your calendars ready.

The Monterey Arabian Horse Classic (with profits going to Cystic Fibrosis Research), will foxtrot, singlefoot and gallop into the Monterey Fairgrounds June 1, 2, and 3. The show has raised over 125,000 for CF Research the past seven years to support efforts to conquer the disease that takes more children's lives than any other except cancer.

Also, Sunday, afternoon June 3, those fun-loving Jesters of the MP Museum of Art say, "Ya'll come" to the Naval Postgraduate School at 3:30 for BBQ chicken. It will be mostly fun and food with a meeting limited to two minutes. Must reserve to pay only $12.50. Late-comers at the door will pay a whopping $15.

ENTRE NOUS...Low-income houses are under construction in Pajaro as a result of the Clint Eastwood Earthquake Benefit in December. The area will be known as "Eastwood Village."...THE MONTEREY BAY Chapter of The American Institute of Wine & Food has had an unprecedented response for initial membership. Seems we have a lot of people with a passion for the intrigue of fine cuisine enhanced by wine at peak perfection. The first big event is set for early June at Highlands Inn. Julia Child, AIWF founding member, will be featured at a luncheon by Executive Chef Brian Whitmer and Patissier Bruno Feldeisen, who will spotlight Mrs. Child's recipes, according to Gary Ibsen. A Founders Banquet folows on another date...ARLEE M'S FASHION sojourn to Paris paid off so well that she is completely out of stock and will not be able to honor her commitment to come to Monterey this week. Arlene hopes to have her summer stocks replenished in time to reschedule a visit in July. She is anxious to see her clients here, as well as visit her sister Kim Novak. Ah! The perils of success...THE AMERICAN HEART Association needs volunteers. If you are willing to offer a few hours you may call 627-6740 for info.

AT THE Older Americans Month Awards reception, Katherine Olsen received the Humanitarian Endeavors Award along with a bouquet of flowers. (Alan McEwen photos.)

BARBARA JORSS received the Professional Achievement Award from Sam Karas in the lounge at Park Lane. They were joined by Jim Valentine, director of Park Lane.

Henry Mello, gave special recognition; and Vance Baldwin, assistant superintendent of Carmel school district, was the keynote speaker. Milligan presented the awards to Hill and Cornelissen. WALKLAMERICA SPARKS NEW HOPE FOR AMERICA'S BABIES

The doors of research to fight the tragedy of birth defects will remain open, thanks to 1,500 walkers who turned out for the March of Dimes WalkAmerica, held April 22.

Despite the numerous activities for Earth Day and a power outage in Santa Cruz county, nearly $130,000 was raised in pledges on the peninsula when walkers "stepped out" for healthier babies!

Top billing goes to Jazzercise of Monterey and Santa Cruz counties with 166 walkers "walking home" $19,000 in pledges. Other top teams include: Pacific Bell, Household Credit Services, and Bank of America. For the third year in a row, Walter Colton Middle School in Monterey has walked away with the number one school honor, raising almost $5,000.

This year, nearly 100 teams in Monterey, Salinas and Santa Cruz joined forces under their company banner as part of TeamWalk, the corporate arm of WalkAmerica. Nearly two-thirds of the money raised from WalkAmerica is attributed to these teams.

In Monterey, soldiers from Fort Ord showed their support in the fight against birth defects by walking the 20-kilometer route in full field dress, while students from the DLI turned out to help organize the event.

Proceeds from WalkAmerica support scientists from leading institutions across the country to find the causes of birth defects, as well as fund public and professional health education and community services.

Local funding is provided by the March of Dimes to the Hopkins Marine Station in Pacific Grove, Watsonville and Salinas Community Hospitals.

Community groups sponsored by the March of Dimes include: The Spina Bifida Support Group, Post Polio Support Group, Teen Pregnancy Program, Parents Helping Parents, and HAND (Helping After Neonatal Death). The March of Dimes is primarily a volunteer run organization, with only 17 percent in fund-raising and administrative costs.

CARMEL VALLEY ROTARY CLUB HONORS THE TOP 100

On May 9, more than 250 people attended the 11th awards dinner at the Monterey Sheraton honoring the top 100 students from Carmel High School. To qualify, a student must have a grade point average of 3.5 or better and eight seniors of the 100 students maintained those academic accomplishments for four consecutive years. They were: Jennifer Carey, Mariah Derr, Tom Hawkins, Peter Komposch, Garrett Morriss, Emily Rubin, Jason Stephens, and Adam Stiles.

Each class was welcomed by Fred Crummey, Carmel Valley Rotary president and overwhelming applause from the proud parents, siblings and Rotary members as the young scholars individually received their awards from Marie Ishida,

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

Maturing friendship

From the Carmel Pine Cone
May 27, 1982

In the past few weeks I have lost in death, a friend, and I feel the loss deeply. The Book of Siroch (The King James Version calls it Apocrypha) gives us this solid advice "Forsake not an old friend; for a new is not comparable to him. The new friend is as new wine when it is old thou shall drink it with pleasure."

Several years ago I visited my friend near Chicago. We talked of old times, ate together and he could not do enough by showing me his area. I realized that our friendship had come to fruition — we had been acquaintances and colleagues — now we were friends.

The maturing of friendship by slow degrees is not readily appreciated in a society such as ours which extolls "call me Joe," instant intimacy. Often we do not realize that friendship has come to be, until it is severed by leave taking or death.

In Shakespeare's Hamlet, Polonius gives advice to his son Laertes, "Those friends thou hast and their adoption tried, grapple them to thy soul with harps of steel." Then he gives some warning against the Danish Goodtime Charlie Syndrome "but do not dull thy palm with entertainment of each new hatched unfledged comrade."

Oh Lord, help us to find a friend and to keep him. We cannot expect more than two or three in a lifetime — King Solomon said A faithful friend is beyond price. He is worth more than money can buy. A faithful friend is an elixir of life.

Finally — Richard Burnfield, an Englishman who died 355 years ago, wrote these cynical lines:

Everyone that flatters thee
Is no friend in misery,
Words are easy as the wind,
Faithful friends are hard to find,
Every man will be thy friend
Whilst thou has wherewith to spend
But if store of crowns be scant
No man will supply thy want
He that is thy friend indeed
He will help thee in thy need.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

The United States Shoe Corporation in Cincinnati has a senior board of directors. Seven of the 10 directors are 65 or more. One is 90 and two are in their 80s. Board chairman Philip Barach is only 58. Queried about the age level of the board, he commented: "With age comes seasoning, and we look on the older people on our board as that source of seasoning."

Despite cosmetic changes associated with aging, the skin continues to do its body-regulating chores throughout life, the National Institute on Aging (NIA) points out. One problem that becomes more common with age is itching, caused by dryness from loss of oils in the skin. To prevent itching, NIA suggests cool baths and use of moisturizers, less use of antiperspirants, soaps, perfumes and long hot baths, and avoiding overexposure to air without adequate humidity. Generalized itching can be a sign of illness, and should be discussed with a physician.

LOMBARDI — BURDICK WEDDING HELD

Barbara Jo Anne Burdick of Pebble Beach became the bride of Philip J. Lombardi of Monterey Saturday afternoon, May 19 at four o'clock in a ceremony conducted by Judge Ralph Drummond. The wedding was held in the sunny flower-filled garden and home of Mrs. Robert Stanton in Carmel Valley.

The bride wore a candlelight Edwardian style silk organza gown with rosepoint lace and a muff used by her mother in her wedding over 50 years ago in Boston. The flowers decorating the muff matched the arrangement in her hair. Bridal attendants wore garden flowers in blue and deep pink colors.

The bride's attendants were Mrs. Robert R. Barry, of Rancho Mirage and Woodside, Mrs. Philip J. Lombardi, Jr. of Oak Park, Ill. and Susan Lombardi of San Francisco, daughter of the groom.

The groom's attendants were his two sons, Philip J. Lombardi, Jr. of Oak Park, Ill. and Robert Lombardi of Denver, Colo.

John Bell of Tustin was soloist and Richard LaSalle was his accompaniest. Among the distinguished guests were Mrs. Jascha Heifetz of Palm Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Somerville and Biten Ramayai of Dallas and San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Chang-Lo of San Rafael, Mr. and Mrs. John Crossen and Monterey Mayor and Mrs. Daniel Albert. A reception followed in the terraced garden which was ablaze with blossoms.

The bride was former project director for La Mirada, the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, and former curator of Thomas Larkin House.

The groom is executive director of the Monterey County Hospitality Association and former senior vice president of the Hyatt Corp. and former general manager of the Hyatt Regency Monterey.

The couple will live in Monterey after a wedding trip to Maui, Hawaii.

Dress Hawaiian for 'Art Prom' to benefit art center

CATCH THE WAVE to the Fourth Annual Art Prom/Benefit Dance and Masquerade. It begins at 9 p.m. Saturday May 26. Set in a Hawaiian theme, this event will benefit and be held at the Pacific Grove Art Center, 568 Lighthouse Ave., Pacific Grove. Tickets at the door will be available for $6 per person.

Attendees are encouraged to dress thematically and enter contests for best shirt or grass skirt and the Fourth Annual Art Prom King and Queen. Prizes for these contests and door prizes will be provided courtesy of area merchants.

Establishing a rock and roll backdrop for this happening event will be Monterey Bay band, Back Trax, playing music from the '60s through the '90s. Also featured will be the return of Magician Derek Dean...and something new will be added this year: the introduction of caterer Flowering Foods, displaying a luau style of hors d'oeuvres, complemented by foods from area merchants.

The Fourth Annual Art Prom is another presentation from artist Josh Mars who brought the Art Prom concept to Pacific Grove almost five years ago.

The doors will open at 8:30 p.m., and the music will start at 9.

For more information, contact Josh Mars at 655-1480. The Pacific Grove Art Center is funded in part by The Monterey County Cultural Council.

BACK TRAX, a Monterey Bay area band, will provide the music for the Pacific Grove Art Center's Fourth Annual Art Prom. The fund-raiser will begin at 9 p.m. Saturday, May 26 at the Art Center, 568 Lighthouse Ave., Pacific Grove. Admission is a $6 donation.

JONATHON LEE, Monterey Bay composer and pianist, presents an evening of his piano compositions in concert to benefit The Blind and Visually Impaired Center of Monterey County. The event is set 4 to 8 p.m. Friday, May 25 at the Monterey Conference Center.

Virginia Stanton hosts the benefit. A buffet of desserts, cheese, fruit, champagne, coffee and tea is included in the $25 tax-deductible ticket.

Lee, who utilizes the services of The Blind and Visually Impaired Center himself, conceived the concert to raise monies to guarantee an on-staff psychologist for the Center.

ARTS & LEISURE

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

Practice resurrection

POET WENDELL BERRY advises earthside residents to "practice resurrection." Sometimes that on-job training involves entire communities — Watsonville after the big quake, Beale Street and Harlem renewal projects, jazz musicians in major cities (New York, Paris, Copenhagen, Los Angeles) answering Dexter Gordon's death with a coordinated jam.

Today the Bruce Arris family's brutal loss lets us all ponder and then share that which we quirky and finally tender human beings call decent (resurrective) behavior. Bruce and writer wife Jean built the wondrous house on Huckleberry Hill with their own four hands. Fire destroyed the dwelling and many Bruce Arris paintings. Insurance wasn't. Arris lore dates back to jazz-bright nights at the Cannery Row lab with Ed Ricketts and Steinbeck; Bruce and mate always have personified generosity. What now?

Well, Shanty Malone's (the new restaurant and jazz haven in Valley Hills Center beside Quail Lodge) books a benefit early next month (6/3). George Malone and Bruce were made from the same colorful and vastly worthwhile pattern. George says the Sunday afternoon gathering will start at one o'clock and run "till whenever."

Organizer is long-time friend Sara Moore. Chef Ken Weeks plans a groaning board of roast beef, Big Sur rockfish, salads, cobbed corn, on and on.

George turned pianist Bobby Phillips and Ace Jazz Buff Larry Storelli loose with the word. Malone's kindness to musicmakers entered local legend long ago. You can bet that players and singers will respond in healthy numbers. Admission cost: $20 per.

Meanwhile, checks for the Arris Fire Recovery Fund may be dropped off at any Wells Fargo Bank branch. If the mail's more convenient, Gil Wisdom and Johnny Adams of KRML Jazz Radio say the station will process heart-based gifts. Checks only to KRML — PO Box 22440 — Carmel 93922.

SHE GAVE WHAT she gave and what she gave was honest and beautiful. And then jazz guitarist Emily Remler suffered a fatal heart attack while touring Australia. Emily was 32 years old when her body quit work.

Miss Remler recorded some fine albums for Carl Jefferson of Concord Records. Carl supplied a packet of Australian press reports. These contained more details than did the North American wire service stories.

Australian journalists said Emily died at the residence of Sydney musician Ed Gaston and his wife Di. At this writing, results of an autopsy had not reached these shores. Emily's Manhattan publicist said there were no known health problems.

Jazz musicians raised money that paid her passage home — New York — through one concert at a club in Balmain. Emily's family, gentleman friend and colleagues have offered final respects.

Emily played Monterey Jazz Festival 1988 with Richie Cole. I'll always remember the rapt and radiant expression Miss Remler's face took on as she listened to bandmates. She was a very pretty young woman, but the depth of her delighted hearing transcended physical attractiveness. It's always a privilege to observe such inspired persons from backstage.

Critics felt that Emily's recording studio associations with master pianist Hank Jones aided her artistic maturation tremendously. As we three stood chatting (later that same evening in the fairgrounds Night Club), the glance of love between them was the pragmatic and quite holy unification of jazz generations. It was pure and deep and powerful — like the eye-lights leaping between Jessica Tandy and Hume Cronyn or Aretha Franklin and her minister dad. No less. Such a personal instant that I had to look away.

Miss Remler went after coffee. "She's a highly creative player," Hank Jones said, "but don't forget that Emily's a wonderful composer as well."

She loved Wes Montgomery's music too. The Montgomery tribute album was her last release as leader. Does Concord have more Emily Remler tracks in the can? Carl Jefferson treated her like a daughter; some time must pass before the reporter-type question gets asked.

SIGHT BITES: Seaside Community Services Department announces that super vibist Bobby Hutcherson will play during the Family Fun Extravaganza at Oldemeyer Center early next month (Saturday 6/2). Free admission. Sponsoring with the city agency — Seaside Rotary and Seaside Disposal. Info: 899-6270. More on all this next time.

Seaside Community Services also identifies acts that'll make up its no-cost Jazz in the Park series on Saturday afternoons in July. Laguna Grande's the place. Bob Phillips Quartet plus vocalist Buddy Conner with his backup band (7/7). Chateau Bovine Band along with Scotty Wright and Kenny Stahl Quartet (7/14). Bill Jackson Quartet followed by San Francisco vocalist Denise Perrier (7/21). Blues bash with J.B. and Nightshift plus tenorman Terry Hanck's Soulrocker Review (7/28). Frank Deanda's Love Chevrolet joins City Hall in paying for the slate.

• When tenor player Red Holloway was in town for that one-nighter at the Sheraton, he called on local radio personality Buddy Lowe to sing a romping blues tune. Buddy blew away all those who didn't know he was a pro singer and drummer in Los Angeles many years ago. "I just might do some gigs," Buddy said afterwards with that huge rich laugh. "More immediately, I've signed with Monterey Bay Blues Festival (6/23-24) to be master of ceremonies at the Garden Stage shows."

The festival now has pinpointed which performers will work specific concerts. A press release contains data not noted by the brochure.

Saturday Garden Stage — Tom Ball, Kenny Sultan, Paul Soderman Band, Johnny Heartsman with Takezo, Bess Williams, Sugar Pie DeSanto. Sunday there — Gospel Hummingbirds, Charles Brown, Ken Arconti's Blowtop Band.

I asked fest board member Will Wallace why the truly legendary Charles Brown had an out-of-arena slot. "We found ourselves wishing to expand the roster after the main stage had been locked solid," Will explained. "I suggested Charles Brown and then spoke with the man. He graciously said he didn't care where — he just wanted to play piano and sing to the people."

• Kuumbwa Jazz Center of Santa Cruz assembles a free show to celebrate its 15th anniversary. From 1-5 Sunday afternoon (5/27) at Duck Island Theater in San Lorenzo Park over there. Cabrillo College Jazz Ensemble, Neon, Eastbound featuring reedman Paul Contos. Food, drink, tee shirts. Sponsor: Santa Cruz City Arts Commission.

• The talented Nick Williams makes known a Third Thursday Jazz Series at Carmel's Cherry Hall. Evening programs will run throughout the summer, Nick says — "trad jazz and bebop and lots of things in between." Various groups and composers. Modest door charge. Call 624-7491.

• KRML jazz broadcaster Ken Haun reports that a Cajun/Creole restaurant in Capitola — Antoine's — spotlights live blues piano nightly. "Three or four different players and all right on."

• John Stowell and George Marsh play the Sheraton's Monterey Bay Club on Thursday night (5/24). Others: Terry Hanck's gang over the Memorial Day Weekend (5/25-27), Don Pendergrass plus pals (5/28), Gail Dobson with Rick Vandeveer (5/29), pianist Ben Falana and band "taping for public television" (5/30), bassist Curtis Ohlsen's unit (5/31). Check out the latter — he has been a San Francisco Bay Area monster for some years now. Well-represented in the record bins.

• Pianist Ace Hill continues at Doubletree Lobby Lounge. Thursday and Friday nights (5:30-8:30); Saturday nights (7:30-11:30).

• Actress Diane Venora should have won an Oscar for her portrayal of Chan Parker in Clint Eastwood's Bird flick. These days she's playing Ophelia to Kevin Kline's Hamlet at New York Public Theater. Says one critic: "Venora creates a smart sober-eyed Ophelia who's plainly a good match for Hamlet. You get the sense that anything can happen." If you're heading eastward, call (212) 598-7150.

• Carlos Santana names his 30th album Spirits Dancing in the Flesh. It'll be released next month — something of a delay because he has been on tour so much.

• Famed bossa nova and samba singer Elizeth Cardoso has died in Rio. Cancer. Age 69. She was a pro vocalist for more than half a century.

• Pianist Benny Green, out of Berkeley High, has a new CD on the Criss Cross label. High praise from reviewers.

• National Association of Recording Merchandisers has given Cleo Laine its Lifetime Achievement Award.

• This month's JazzTimes includes two Will Wallace photos and my piece on guitarist and composer J.J. Cale.

THEATER REVIEW

By James P. Kinney

A wonder of women at the GroveMont

WHAT DOES one make of a theater piece that limits itself to exploring exclusively the lives and emotions of three interrelated women, a grandmother, a mother and a daughter?

Let me rephrase that. What is a man to make of such a play? Hints that Lee Blessing's Eleemosynary, which opened this past weekend at the GroveMont in New Monterey would be a different kind of theatrical experience are made clear from the start. The set is a series of free form platforms floating in front of free form panels above a surface of interlocking curved floor pieces, the entire playing area painted in shimmering shades of white and grey. Hints of Greek tragedy staging, huh?

No walls. No doors. No chairs. No tables. No benches. No telephones. None of those visibly comforting wooden, plaster, and metal forms which usually anchor human action onstage and off.

"This is not a play about things," Director Kathy Deskin-Jacobs warns in her program notes. It is about "the essence of life — feelings."

Oh. oh. The dynamics of woman-to-woman relationships have always been a fascination and a confusion to me, being a male, Nature's designated outsider. The best analogy I have found over a lifetime of being bemused, frustrated and fascinated by women is that of river, of winding stream — now flowing this way, now that, here underground and mysterious, there exploding in a rush of white water, now angry and resentful, then too soon after nurturing and serene, at times enticing, at times repelling. Men, by contrast, have tended for me to be highways, aimed, directed, conscious of destination. Rivers and roads both susceptible to detours, of course, and batteries not included.

Dorothea (Rosamond Goodrich), having experimented with normalcy in her earlier days, consciously chooses eccentricity in her adulthood. "I noticed nobody takes eccentrics seriously, so I decided to become one." She creates her own reality when she finds the one at hand unsatisfactory. She gives birth to Artie (Dorian Ellis) and proceeds to try out some of her far-out ideas with daughter as guinea pig. The most dramatic of these is her attempt to prove that humans can fly by attaching large white wings to her daughter's arms.

In fact, the first hilarious scene shows a winged Artie protesting vigorously that her lack of faith in Momma's scheme disinclines her strongly to jump off a high tower into a small pile of leaves below. The wings, incidentally, onstage most of the play, are the only props ever seen. When Artie is small, Dorothea snips a lock of her hair and hides it. Artie spends days turning the house upside down trying to find her mother's hiding place, only to have Dorothea hand the hair back carelessly with the words, "Here, you can have your hair back. I don't want it anymore." (Thank-you, Mommy Dearest!)

As is obvious by now, this play is not your basic pastel-tinted Hallmark greeting card for Mother's Day. Artie runs away as a teenager and tries to make an independent life for herself. She is tracked down by Dorothea and dragged back home. She escapes again, gets pregnant, calls her mother to convey the news and is crushed at her mother's blase reaction. She gives birth to Echo (Julie Hughett). Artie had chosen a more predictable name but Dorothea insists on something more exotic.

Artie decides she is not cut out for motherhood, leaves Echo with Dorothea and eventually becomes a successful researcher and academic. Her way of communicating with Echo is through the spelling of very difficult, arcane words. Echo, an intelligent, tough little cookie, resolves to be the best speller in the world, and hungry for her grandmother's and mother's approval, wins a national title.

This is a tough-minded, unsentimental, unusual play. Cruelty jostles cheek to jowl with thoughtfulness; devotion is forced aside by selfishness; hilarity explodes in the face of catastrophe. The three women do battle, then at times, reluctantly, embrace. We see their weaknesses confounding strengths, their rational decisions overturned by emotionalism. Just like in real life.

All three actresses are superb. Rosamond Goodrich's Dorothea crackles with quirky wit and energy. I was amazed to see such verve and youthfulness in an actress I have experienced so often before in older, more dignified granny roles. Dorian Ellis, better known for her lubricious, seductive physicality in earlier plays, goes spiritual on us here and gives a convincing portrayal of a wounded, wondering woman, trying to survive as best she can on the thin emotional gruel served her in her early vulnerable years.

But it is young Julie Hughett who adds a definitive shine and sparkle to the play's action with her final aria to the strength and resiliency of Woman, suffering, struggling, and determined to prevail. Earlier, in her scene as the cocky, insecure, arrogant, predatory speller discovered in the heat of battle, she is at her comic best. But especially in the play's final speech, her eyes snapping intelligence and defiance, her lithe, taut bluejeaned body bursting with the insouciance (hey, this spelling bee stuff is catching!) and fearlessness of youth, she eloquently and powerfully sums up the Eleemosynary (giving) quality the three women have brought to their lives together.

This production runs Thursdays through Saturdays at 8 p.m., Sundays at 7 p.m. through June 3rd. A single matinee at 2 p.m. is scheduled for the final Sunday. The GroveMont Theater's cafe opens one hour prior to curtain.

MUSIC CORNER

By Nathalie Plotkin

I Cantori di Carmel presents spring concerts

I CANTORI di Carmel was heard in concert Sunday night in the Carmel Mission Basilica. Dr. Sal Ferrantelli chose and conducted a program in which his finely honed and disciplined chorus gave a performance which at times transcended the material it offered.

In my view, the finest music of the evening was made at the very beginning of the program. Two a cappella motets by Anton Bruckner were truly lovely, music of surprising delicacy from the pen of a symphonic composer who dealt in grandiose concepts. "Locus Este" was a model of simplicity and brevity. It was sung with careful attention to text, dynamics and balance and the choral tone was moving. "Virga Jesse floruit" was sung with dramatic ringing rone and had strong bass underpinnings. The attacks and cut-offs were clean and the concentrated feeling was excellently projected.

Also a cappella, the player "Tota Pulchra" by Pablo Casals achieved similar musical results. This time, a tenor section solo was a model of discipline and clarity. The chorus tone was smooth and well controlled.

Soprano soloist Sarah Franklin joined the chorus and orchestra to perform Mendelssohn's rather pedestrian setting of the hymn "Hor mein Bitten, Herr." There is a soaring soprano line which Ms. Franklin encompassed easily and with a full, large tone. Her dialogues with the chorus were colorful and exciting, but she was nearly swamped by the combined choral and orchestral forces.

"Nanie" (Elegy) by Brahms, a composition for chorus and orchestra, received a more balanced treatment and was smoothly sung. The broad phrases were drawn with clarity, good tone and musical feeling, but was at its best when the chorus didn't have to battle the orchestra in order to be heard.

Haydn's "Missa Sancti Nicolai" was the major offering of the evening. It is a Missa Brevis, but one conceived on a large scale calling for a chorus, a quartet of vocal soloists and a full orchestra. Soprano Sarah Franklin, alto Katherine Anderson, tenor Gene Manners and baritone Reg Huston were allotted a major share of the very pleasing music which Haydn wrote to celebrate the name day of his patron Prince Nicolaus Esterhazy.

The Mass began with a celebratory 'Kyrie" sung by the soloists with lightness and fervor. The "Gloria" featured exciting choral singing. Soprano Sarah Franklin's large, full voice shone in a sensitive interpretation of the "Gratias." The "Qui Tollis" was a fine sample of choral spirit and attention. In the "Amen" fugue the chorus threw themselves almost physically into the swinging rhythm.

As the Mass went along there was much to applaud in the performance but running through my notes is the comment "too much orchestra." They played well and when a movement had an instrumental introduction or interlude, it was very well done. However Haydn writes many repetitious string figures in his accompaniments and they became very obtrusive, and detracted a great deal from the fine word of the chorus and soloists.

When a choral concert is prepared, it is rehearsed in two parts. First the vocal music is honed and then the orchestra is added. Here the shortcoming was the lack of control over the balance between the two component parts. The sum of the pieces didn't quite blend into a well balanced combination.

Cephalopods celebrated during Seventh Annual Squid Festival

FOR THOSE with a taste for history as well as seafood, the Great Monterey Squid Festival is both a tribute to the commercial fishing industry of the Monterey Bay and a succulent celebration of the star of the sea, the incredible edible squid!

Thousands of pounds of savory calamari, battered, fried and grilled, continuous family entertainment, plus exhibits add up to a fun-filled Memorial Day Weekend at the Monterey Squid Festival held yearly at the Monterey Fairgrounds and Exposition Park.

The delicate flavor of the Monterey Bay Squid makes it an international favorite with calamari fans. Also available are a variety of other seafoods, fresh off the boat, some delectable old world taste treats, plus a menu of traditional, popular foods.

More than just a food fair, this two-day event will feature continuous entertainment from four separate stages.

Visitors will also enjoy a variety of arts and crafts and an intriguing array of special educational exhibits and displays. A "touch-tank," sponsored by the Hopkins Marine Station of Stanford University, offers a close-up view of marine life, including the star of this fun-filled extravaganza, the squid. The Festival is a project of the Monterey Kiwanis Club, and all proceeds will help support charitable community activites and agencies.

Originating in 1984, the Monterey Squid Festival is a major fund raiser sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Monterey benefiting the entire Monterey Peninsula.

Festival hours are 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $5 for adults and $2 for children ages 6 to 12 (children 5 and under free).

THEATER REVIEW

By Joan Swartz Paonessa

'Evita!' at MPC: magnificent entertainment

SUPERLATIVE, adj.: 1. In grammar, designating the highest degree of an adjective or adverb.

Don't know where I'll find enough of these to delineate my reactions to MPC's production of Evita! It's breathtaking.

Where do I go from here? To the singing! Hats off to Bill Doggett for creating and leading a tight and exciting vocal ensemble, and for his coaching of the principals. Diction, so often given short shrift in locan entertainments, is flawless here. What a joy it is for an audience to be able to sit back, relax, and enjoy, confident in the knowledge that the words will come through.

David Rupert's conducting has grown and ripened in this endeavor to the extent that he is able to elicit a very high quality sound from an orchestra composed of several of this area's finest musicinas: pros, semi-pros, and pros-to-be. Andrew Lloyd Webber's score is passionate and evocative, driving the action of the play forward measure by measure. Its harmonies and rhythms form an eloquent and emotional blend with Tim Rice's lyrics.

Considerable space is given in the program to historical and political background, so I'll not reiterate what is explained there, except to say that Evita examines the rise of Peronismo and the descamisados (shirtless ones) through its focus on Eva Duarte Peron, the driving force behind the movement, and an angel/devil figure of remarkable power and influence.

Susan Tiller is superb in the pivotal role of Evita. Her voice is full and beautifully produced, and her dramatic and physical transformations; as Eva grows, matures, and adapts to her surroundings, are pure chameleon-magic.

The Juan Peron character is a complex one. Vincente J. Salazar rises to its demands in a mature and sensitive performance which gives us a sense of the strength required to lead a nation, while reflecting at all times the Colonel's dependence on his charismatic First Lady. Che Guevara (in a touch of dramatic license) acts as narrator, devil's advocate, the spokesperson of (some of) the people. The part is lively, arousing, and very well sung and acted by John Newkirk.

Nancy Larner, as Peron's former mistress, lends her strong soprano voice and acting ability to a sensitive rendition of the ballad "Another Suitcase in the Hall." Magaldi, a snakey tango singer and Eva's first step up the ladder of success, is portrayed amusingly by talented baritone Bryce Lord.

The performers dance with ecstatic energy and a high degree of precision. Terry Barto's choreography is exciting throughout, ever-varied and well-executed.

The glorious costumes, flash and dash, lame and feathers, somber peasant garb, and snappy soldier suits, are the work of Connie Gamiere (Designer) and a gifted crew. Ken Holamon and D. Thomas Beck have based their marvelous set on the original Broadway design. Beck is to be credited, too, with the socko lighting design. Technically, the show is a knockout.

Kudos to Director Sid Cato for his supremely successful execution of a task of great magnitude. It's a magnificent entertainment and a throroughly fitting choice to commerate MPC Theater's 20th anniversary.

Evita plays Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at 8, Sunday afternoons at 2. Tickets are available at the MPC Box Office or Center Stage Ticketing.

Rape Crisis Center needs 'good listeners'

The Monterey Rape Crisis Center is looking for a few "good listeners" to answer the 24-hour Rape Crisis Hotline. Interested individuals will be certified as Sexual Assault Counselors through a 40-hour training which will start Saturday, June 2.

Such training will include communication and counseling techniques, an understanding of the legal system, rape trauma syndrome, and services available to survivors of sexual assault.

Volunteers for the Monterey Rape Crisis Center serve as advocates for victims of rape and child abuse by providing crisis counseling, and by going with survivors of an assault to the hospital, police station or court.

Volunteers work out of their homes, and are asked to take one six-hour shift a week and one weekend shift per month. Requirements include taking the 40-hour certification training, a valid driver's license and a committent of at least six months.

Volunteer advocates also meet once a month with other advocates to discuss cases and are provided with in-service trainings on a regular basis.

Sunset Center art festival seeks artists' submissions

A CALL FOR artwork is extended by organizers of the first "Outdoor Summer Art Festival," to take place Saturday, June 23 at Sunset Cultural Center in Carmel. The show is open to all Monterey Peninsula and Salinas area artists.

Media represented will include:
- Watercolor;
- Oils;
- Serigraphs;
- Lithographs;
- Drawings;
- Collage;
- Photographs;
- Etching;
- Sculpture.

The Outdoor Summer Art Festival will provide a showcase for fine art and artists.

"Sunset Center has the Homecrafters' Marketplace in November, but a lot of artists do not apply to that because they want to be among artists, not craftspeople," explained Joan Vandervort, coordinator of the event.

Paintings and sculpture will be reviewed for selection by three members of the Carmel Art Association: Joe Tanous, Miguel Dominguez and Wilda Northrup. Roger Fremier will review the submitted photographs.

The committee requests three pieces from each artist. Each painting is to have a three-by-five-inch card secured to the back with the artist's name, address and telephone number. Paintings are not to exceed 36-by-36-inches.

Sculpture is not to exceed 100 pounds. All pieces should also be labeled. Smaller pieces should be boxed.

Work may be taken to Sunset Center until June 1. The center is on San Carlos Street at Ninth Avenue in Carmel-by-the-Sea. The work will be reviewed as quickly as possible and artists will be called to pick up their work. The committee may select up to 100 artists for the outdoor show. Because this is intended to be a showcase for "affordable art," individual prices are not to exceed $400.

The festival is open to both amateur and professional artists. A food concession stand will be open during the event, with proceeds to benefit the Friends of Sunset Center.

The first Outdoor Summer Art Festival will also feature a purchase award, best of show, people's choice award and ribbons for several categories.

Upon selection for the show, each artist will be assigned a space measuring 10 feet across and 15 feet deep. There will be a $20 entry fee to cover advertising, printings, mailings and ribbons.

A one-day Architectural Tour of the Walker House (Art 296) will be offered Saturday, July 21. Those enrolled will meet in Room A-9 at 9 a.m. for an orientation session. The bus tour to the Walker House in Carmel will include work by Mills and Dahlstrand. A buffet lunch will be catered by the Mediterranean Market.

Registration for these classes can be processed by visiting the MPC Admissions Office between 8 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday, or 8 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Friday. Pre-registration for Summer Session ends June 13. For additional information, call 646-4002.

THE WORLD AT YOUR FEET

RETIRE in grandeur with a home that gives you these spectacular views from all the major rooms: river, mountains, golf course and even a peek of ocean worth mentioning.

ENTERTAIN in style with an open floor plan that was specifically designed for those who love to give parties. And, there are 4 rooms and decks to handle those overflow crowds of large parties or scale it down to enjoy those more intimate gatherings.

LIVE in luxury with a separate master suite that features mirrored walls, walk-in closet plus tiled and marble bath done with the most exquisite fixtures and cabinetry. The views are breathtaking.

RELAX with the family in front of 1 of the 2 fireplaces or outside on the deck in the spa.

WATCH the laziness as the lush landscape virtually cares for itself under the direction of an elaborate drip irrigation system.

SMILE with satisfaction as you read your utility bill in a home with solar hot water and passive solar design qualities.

READ with anticipation some of the basic information about a home that is miles above being basic: 3 bedrooms, 2.5 baths, vaulted wood ceilings, large living room, solarium, family room, sun room, a kitchen worthy of any you've ever seen and all of this in a condition as new as yesterday. This is the new standard to compare at $700,000.

AWARD-WINNING HOME!

DESIGNATED the "Restoration Home of the Year" by the Pacific Grove Historical Society, this is a superbly restored Victorian, vintage 1899, in an attractive neighborhood near Washington Park...the perfect setting for your treasured possessions. Downstairs is a special feature — 12-foot ceilings that give an air of spaciousness to living room, dining room, luxurious master bedroom, and kitchen. Upstairs are two comfortable bedrooms and bath. Outside, a double garage and a bricked driveway. You'll appreciate the fine craftsmanship that has helped earn this home its award. $435,000.

HOUSEPARTY BY-THE-SEA

A LUXURIOUS home near Carmel Beach with two big decks to capture sunshine and breathtaking ocean views for you, your family, and your guests. Features include a living room with picture windows across the top floor to frame the view, three bedrooms, each with gleaming new bath...a stylish dining room and modern kitchen...and newly landscaped garden with drip system. The house has been thoroughly — and tastefully — renovated from top to bottom, and every conceivable feature has been added to make your seaside retreat an absolute joy. Call for an appointment to preview this outstanding home! $1,690,000.

SOUTH OF OCEAN AVENUE

A REAL old-fashioned family home in Carmel with a big, comfortable living room, kitchen with a laundry porch, large rear deck to catch the afternoon sun, and four bedrooms upstairs. Outside, on the south side, you'll find a new driveway leading to a carport in the rear so you won't have to park in the street. The interior has something of an Edwardian feel, and you might want to capitalize on it when it comes time for you to add your own decor. At any rate, it's a very nice property with a very nice water view that you'll enjoy making your very own! $695,000.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS

WHEN YOU THINK of the cute shops in Carmel, this might be just the kind of building you have in mind. Attractive from the street, it offers a facade of half-timbered and brick construction, and it's on several levels, with an enchanting little court shaded by an oak tree in the middle of the upper level. The property is occupied by three shops and a studio apartment. A fine investment for the long term. $795,000.

DOWNTOWN Carmel, near the new branch of the library...two structures on a 40-by 100-foot lot housing a total of four offices. There is slightly more than 1500 square feet of leasable space. The property has been completely remodeled and updated, and it shows well. $675,000.
